FINAL NOTES

Section One

Foundation.

*Before the mark, the meaning. Before the typeface, the tone.
This section is the why.*

01.1

Brand Essence

WHAT WE ARE

SICE is a media platform for South Indian creators — built to take regional talent from viral moment to sustainable business.

Not a talent agency. Not a community Discord. A working media platform with editorial, infrastructure, and a paying audience.

ESSENCE IN THREE WORDS

Regional.
Modern.
Working.

Positioning Statement

ONE PARAGRAPH · NO JARGON

For regional creators across Malayalam, Tamil, Telugu, and Kannada markets — SICE is the media platform that publishes their work, scales their reach, and connects them to brands that pay regional rates fairly. Unlike global creator networks that overlook South India, SICE is built here, by people who know how the region buys, watches, and listens.

This is the single sentence to memorize. Every other piece of communication should be traceable back to this. If a message contradicts this positioning, the message is wrong — not the positioning.

What SICE Is Not

NEGATIVE SPACE MATTERS

NOT A TALENT AGENCY

Agencies represent talent for fees. SICE publishes work and connects creators to opportunities — the relationship is platform-to-creator, not agent-to-client.

NOT A COMMUNITY GROUP

Communities are free, voluntary, and unmonetized. SICE is a working business with revenue lines and accountable outputs.

NOT A LUXURY BODY

Luxury requires legacy. SICE is new. The brand should feel premium and modern, not aristocratic.

Section Two

The Wordmark.

No symbol. No icon. The name does the work. Four letters carry the whole brand — every detail of how they appear, matters.

02.1

Primary Lockup

THE HERO TREATMENT

SICE

SOUTH INDIAN CREATOR ECONOMY

The lockup has three parts in fixed order: rule with dot above, wordmark center, tagline below. The dot is small — it does not become a "logo mark" on its own. The rule keeps the wordmark from floating; the tagline anchors the meaning.

Below 48px, drop the tagline. Below 24px, drop the rule and dot — wordmark only. Never compress the lockup to fit a constrained space; remove elements in order: tagline first, then rule, then crop to wordmark.

Misuse

SIX WAYS TO BREAK THE BRAND

DON'T · 01

SICE

Never slant, skew, or italicize the wordmark.

DON'T · 02

SICE

Never set the wordmark in any typeface other than Bricolage Grotesque.

DON'T · 03

SICE

Never apply gradients, glows, or shadows to the wordmark.

DON'T · 04

SICE

Never set the wordmark in colors outside the brand palette.

DON'T · 05

S I C E

Never alter letter-spacing on the wordmark itself.

DON'T · 06

sice

Never use lowercase. The wordmark is always uppercase.

Section Three

Color.

Four colors. One accent. Strict proportions. The palette is small on purpose — restraint is what reads as premium.

03.1

The Palette

FOUR COLORS · NO MORE

60%

PRIMARY SURFACE

#0B1426

Backgrounds, dark surfaces, primary brand color. The "stage."

30%

EDITORIAL NEUTRAL

Bone

#F5F1E8

Paper, text on dark, breathing space. The "page."

9%

ACCENT

Signal Gold

#D4A857

Rules, accents, taglines. Sparing use only. The "highlight."

1%

BROADCAST ONLY

Live Signal

#E84B3C

Live dots, record indicators, urgent alerts. Never decorative.

The 60/30/9/1 ratio is the rule. If a composition has more than 10% gold, it stops feeling premium. If it has any red outside a live broadcast context, it stops feeling intentional.

WRONG · OVERCOOKED

Section Four

Typography.

One display face. One supporting face. Everything else is misuse. The system is small because small systems are the ones that get followed.

SPECS

Bricolage Grotesque carries every headline, every wordmark, every display surface. Use weights 400, 500, 600. Never use weights 700 or 800 — too aggressive for SICE.

Tracking is always negative on display sizes. Range: -20 to -60. Tight tracking is part of the voice.

Always loaded from Google Fonts. Variable axis (12-96 optical size) — let the browser pick the right grade for the rendered size.

BODY 14 / 1.7

The platform launched in May 2026 with three founding chapters: Calicut, Kochi, and Bangalore. Within the first quarter, SICE published 47 long-form features, hosted 12 in-person meetups, and connected 23 creators to paid brand work. The model is straightforward — publish, host, connect.

Last updated 14 May 2026 · 3 minute read

Inter covers every job that isn't a headline: body, captions, labels, UI, microcopy. Weights 400 (body) and 500 (labels, UI). All caps for labels with +320 tracking. Sentence case for body and UI.

04.3

Hierarchy in Practice

A PAGE RENDERED CORRECTLY

How a Calicut-based satirist built a 600,000-strong audience without leaving Kerala.

A profile of one of the region's most quietly successful Malayalam-language creators — and what regional creators everywhere can learn from her playbook.

By the SICE Editorial Desk · 7 minute read

She does not have a manager. She does not live in Mumbai. She has never been to a marketing conference. And yet she has built one of the most consistent audiences in Malayalam-language content — through nothing more than weekly uploads, a clear voice, and a refusal to dilute her local references.

Section Five

Voice.

How SICE sounds in writing. Five principles. Memorize them. Apply them to every line of copy.

05.1

The Five Voice Principles

NON-NEGOTIABLE

PRINCIPLE 01

Say it plainly.

PRINCIPLE 02

Specific beats generic.

"A Calicut-based satirist" beats "a regional creator." "₹2.3 lakh" beats "a few lakhs." Specificity is what makes the brand trustworthy.

No
corporate jargon, no buzzwords,
no
"synergy." If a sentence could appear in a McKinsey deck, rewrite it.
SICE talks like a person, not a brochure.

PRINCIPLE 03

Region first.

SICE is South Indian, not pan-Indian-with-South-Indian-features.
Reference
Kerala,
Tamil Nadu,
Telangana,
Karnataka
by name.
Use local

PRINCIPLE 04

Short sentences win.

Long sentences feel uncertain. Short sentences feel decided. Most paragraphs should be three sentences or fewer. Cut adjectives ruthlessly.

language where it lands.

PRINCIPLE 05

Confident, never boastful.

"Built here" not "world-class." "Works" not "transformative." The brand earns trust by sounding like it has nothing to prove — not by claiming it has everything to offer.

05.2

Voice in Practice

BEFORE · AFTER

OFF-BRAND

"SICE is the leading provider of comprehensive solutions empowering South Indian creators to unlock their full potential through cutting-edge infrastructure and synergistic brand partnerships."

Jargon. Empty. Could describe any company. No one would read past the first comma.

ON-BRAND

"SICE publishes Malayalam, Tamil, Telugu, and Kannada creators. We pay regional rates fairly. We help work travel further than a feed."

Plain. Specific. Three short sentences. Tells you exactly what SICE does.

Section Six

Graphic System.

No symbol. So the brand needs other signatures to be recognisable. Two: the gold rule with dot, and the numbered section system.

06.1

The Rule & Dot

SIGNATURE DEVICE

A thin gold rule, a small gold dot, a matching rule. This three-piece device is the most repeatable element in the system.

Use it above every major section header, every chapter title, every social post centerpiece. Use it as the brand "stamp" the way a publisher uses a printer's mark.

Rule width: 1px. Dot diameter: 4px. Spacing on either side of the dot: 8px.
Colors: signal gold on dark surfaces, gold deep on light surfaces.

06.2

The Numbering System

EDITORIAL STRUCTURE

01.1 Section title here

02.3 Subsection title

04.2 Another section

Numbered sections in italic serif, paired with sans-serif headings. The serif italic adds editorial warmth to an otherwise mostly-sans system.

Use Fraunces italic for the numbers — the only place Fraunces appears in the system. It's a deliberate counterpoint to Bricolage Grotesque, the way a magazine pairs sans heads with serif folio numbers.

Section Seven

Applications.

Where the brand actually lives. From business card to broadcast end card. Every surface follows the same rules: indigo dominates, gold accents, type does the work.

Final notes. Read before launching anything under this brand.

A brand book is a working document, not a law. Follow the rules until you know why you'd break them.

THREE RULES THAT ARE ABSOLUTE

- 01 · Wordmark in Bricolage 600, always.
- 02 · Indigo + gold + bone. Red only for live.
- 03 · No symbol. The name does the work.

THREE RULES THAT FLEX

- 01 · Tagline placement can vary by surface.
 - 02 · Rule length can scale to context.
 - 03 · Voice can lean editorial or factual.
